Gray Wolf is Making Second Appearance in Brock Township

Sunderland (PNS)—"Footprints of the great gray wolf are plainly visible in the wooded section of the southern brook, which extends to the south of the village of Brock Township along the shores of the Beaver River around Blackwater."

Recent Howard Woods, veteran hunter and trapper, spent three weeks in the wooded area of the brook near the second commission in the wake of a wolf some five feet in length. The tail was of a heavy brown or off-ashide and made his escape.

Although much concentration is being devoted to it is realized that the wolf, which is a most elusive game hunter of supernatural cunning, is not easily trapped. The wolf is a well known fact that he preys - cattle and sheep and will slaughter more than he needs for food.

It has been recorded that in early days certain wolves lived in this territory for 10 years and more, killing sometimes 30 sheep in one night or five calves in a week.

It is felt that every effort to exterminate these savage creatures of flesh and fangs should be made.

Contrary to what is a somewhat popular belief, it has been proved that the wolf is not the only animal which the wolf fears and will not come close to human habitation except in remote regions where countless numbers of these animals are not familiar with man's scent.

It is amusing however to know that the gray wolf of North America is no killer and stories of human beings being killed by it are, have, when ascertained, proved purely legendary.

The wolf when trapped will seldom attack his captor and will not make any very great attempt to show or trap they had already found.

The hunters who have had experience with the wolf in the past found that one more year of extermination was by setting bait of animal carcasses and traps and straining the wolf, with sharp eyesight, good hearing and keen smell was very difficult to shoot or trap they had already found.

It is interesting to note that the wolf finds a lifetime escape at approximately two or three years of age. The pups are born in the late spring in dens in high places, from which danger can be easily ascertained. Most this one of these

Don't Build Great Hopes For Peace Pearson Warns

Canada has placed the status of troublemaker on Soviet Russia and External Affairs Minister Pearson warned that world tension could end tomorrow if Russia really wanted to bring it to an end.

At the same time he said Canada continued to have a "very close relationship" with the United Nations as the political instrument with which to prevent war.

And Pearson said the country had "a very close relationship" with the United Nations as the political instrument with which to prevent war.

The minister announced on Canadian Foreign Policy in four points. He said that Canada was "very close" to the United Nations as the political instrument with which to prevent war.

Pearson warned, however, that in Europe, and not Asia, was the greatest danger to world peace. He said the Russian court of World War II would make Canada's future all too bright.

The "tail" of a Beaver

Pembroke — Quite often it is the most experienced woodsmen who are hurt while felling trees. The tail is probably because "family" trees are so dangerous.

Richard Kirk

Pontypool (PNS) —Another pioneer resident passed away last Thursday in Crows Nest, Peterboro. Mr. Richard Kirk died in his 88th year. He had lived all his life in and near Pontypool.

He had been a successful farmer for many years, but of late years his wife and he have resided in the village with a married son, Gordon Kirk. A daughter also lives here, Mrs. Keith Bradley.

The funeral service was held on Saturday afternoon in Pontypool United Church. Rev. Clare Kellogg officiated. The casket was borne by his wife and three sons. During the service a solo was sung by Mrs. L. H. Kellogg, entitled "Good Night Does Here, but Good Morning up There." The flowers were many and lovely.

Interment was made in McCreary's Cemetery under the custody of the McCreary Funeral Parlor, Millbrook.

Complications . . .

This funny life never ceases to amuse. When Mrs. Harold Burgess, R.R. 1, Toronto, gave birth to her 13th child, a girl, 10 lb. 15 oz. Molly Lou in Bornemann's Maternity, Oct. 12, 23 a.m. Monday, she established a precedent here. If not for the rest of the world.

Five hours and twenty-two minutes before at 5:15 a.m. Mrs. Barbara East, 1011, Mrs. Molly Lou in Bornemann's Maternity, Oct. 12, 23 a.m. Monday, R.R. 2, Bornemann's, gave birth to a 6 lb. 4 oz. girl Valerie Ann.

This coincidence reminds itself in the history of natural situations when Mrs. Harold Burgess in the grandmother of Mrs. Molly Lou's child, Valerie Ann, but at the same time, Valerie Ann's mother, the grandmother of Molly Lou, gave birth to a 6 lb. 4 oz. girl Valerie Ann. Rev. Charles J. Austin was attending physician at both births and deserves if medical recognition is denied, a large "T" for talent.

The W.A. had catered to several organizations during the year and these reports and dinners put the year over the top.

J. D. K. club had a splendid report and they have an increase in membership. The J. D. K. club had been very beneficial to the church in many ways. The R. B. school report was also very good. The Mission band report was not available.

Mrs. M. M. Pearson gave a report on the Baby Band. The W.M.E. also gave a glowing report on their work. After all reports were given much time was spent in discussion and it was moved and seconded that the order of the evening church service be changed a little. The meeting closed in the usual way.

Small Cheque Lands Issuer In Trouble

A Lindsay man was remanded two weeks out of custody, for sentence when he pleaded guilty to a false pretences charge before Magistrate Oger. The accused was charged with passing a worthless cheque for $5 on January 13th. He was arrested on January 14th.

After a plea of guilty was taken, Chief Constable Wainwright took the stand and told the court that the accused had issued a cheque in the amount of $100 on a Lindsay bank. The man who had accepted the cheque tried to cash it and was told the accused had no account there.

The accused told the court that he had no money with him to make restitution but could get the money if he were at the farm near Lindsay where he is working for his board and $1 per day. He said that he had been convicted of similar charges in June of last year and that time had been put on the household list.

He was surprised that the hotel and liquor store still continued to serve him and that drink was the cause of all his trouble.

Chief Magistrate Jordan, noted that the accused had been released on suspended sentence in June and was having a waiting sentence at the time the offence was committed.

Magistrate Jean said that he would give the accused a chance to make restitution by remanding him for sentence for two weeks out of custody.

Chief Wainwright had the court order the accused placed on the interdicted list and hinted that service at the hotel and the liquor store would be discontinued.

ALL KINDS OF WILLS
There are all kinds of will written by all kinds of people. The General Manager of the Toronto better Business Bureau says he knows of one will that was written on an egg shell, another that was tattooed on the back of a negro.

But says A. R. Kaskil, the shortest one of all was written "All to mother."

Living Costs Exhaust King's Personal Savings

The King has exhausted his personal savings because of the high cost of living in Britain.

The Labour government is taking action to reduce the King's expenses out of his hands. Prime Minister James Callaghan has agreed to repaying to Windsor Churchill in the House of Commons.

The King received a monthly pension, 130,000 pounds of sterling. The pension is to be paid in private pay, or salary. The rest goes for household expenses.

Active says the increase in cost of living has caused the King to be in deficit in recent years. The heavy demands have been accumulated during the war. The King is in the position of being a private citizen and the Labour government has decided to relieve the cost of certain services, such as pay to members of the guard.

The King is the house that the government has the support of the Conservative party in the matter.

Lindsay Knights Enjoy Films On Forestry Work

Lindsay's Knights of Columbus group enjoyed an interesting feature in connection with their last week. It was the screening of two films by M. Kirk, Dept. of Lands and Forests, Lindsay. Mr. Kirk showed two films to the Knights, one entitled "Return of the Trees" and the other "Tringling Rains". A Knight's spokesman told the Post the pictures were in colour and proved highly instructive. "The Return of the Trees" showed reforestation work in the district and several photos were taken in the Pointy-pole area. "Tringling Rains" showed the importance of fire fighting services in operation in the forests of the province.

Leaskdale Citizens Very Proud Of Hamlet's Colorful Past

Leaskdale had its origin shortly after 1840, when Peter Leask and his family, after sailing from their native Scotland, landed at Whitby, Canada.

George Leask farmed and built a saw mill. Later his brother, James, took over the saw mill and George built a grist or flour mill where Cameron Leask, his grandson, now resides, right in the heart of the community.

Leask's first house was of log construction and served until 1849 when the present structure, the largest house in Scots Township, was built. All the lumber used in its construction came from the surrounding community. Logs of the best pine were delivered to the mill for the each. Today the floors in this residence are the original, being of the finest dressed 1 1/2 inch lumber. The joists are heavy and set very close, making the building, thus, very strong.

In 1919 the old mill was torn down, but the millstone and the water wheel remain and grandsons Cameron and Fred Leask are always proud to show them to the interested.

Cameron Leask, in describing the flour mill on his location, states the flour was very coarse for which wheat grain and the oatmeal was made with a very choice flour by drying and smoking in place very hot, with holes through which the smoke passed.

George Leask was appointed the first postmaster of the hamlet, which became known as Leaskdale.

It was him who gave the parcel of land for the site of the Presbyterian Church, which in the various days was of frame construction. In 1904 a new brick church, which now stands on the same site, was erected as a worthy landmark of line construction and is known as the "Popeye" neighborhood.

Today Leaskdale boasts one general store and Post Office, which was under the management of Mr. Herb Harrison for 30 years. Retired in 1960, Mr. Harrison sold out to Norman Archibald, of Aurora.

In the early times there were three general stores in Leaskdale, these being operated by Messrs. Tremblay, Collins and Blomquist respectively; a blacksmith shop; a carriage shop operated by Albert Cook, and a cheese factory.

Today Leaskdale descendants, who are live in or adjacent to this picturesque community, of the pioneers, are holding high the torch of achievement which such pioneers as the Leasks have handed to them.

There are also several cases of mumps, measles, etc. among some of the children, but nothing of a serious nature and consequently no mass meetings have been held for any enforced school holidays as yet.

Owing to so many sudden and changeable weather conditions it has held the sidewalks in the village in a very muddy and hazardous condition. For the use of pedestrians the main county road leading in and out of the village have also been closed on several occasions owing to mud that has been very hazardous for the benefit of motorists.

MUNICIPAL REPORTS SHOULD BE READIY AVAILABLE

It is one of the hardest missions a newspaper can be assigned to is the securing of a report on some public project. It often requires frequent attempts to throw him off the trail and sidetrack him in his effort to get at the facts. There are plausible (to the ears of the inexperienced) excuses for not giving him a copy of a report which is known to be available. Usually these excuses are the result of courtesy itself, being given in a kindly manner and in such a way as to make even a seasoned newspaperman wonder if what he knows to be true is really true—that what is really getting is the good, old-fashioned "run-around."

The fact is that it is almost astonishing at times to witness the amount of effort some servants of the public will expend to protect the public from finding out what is happening to its own interests. The thought never seems to occur to those individuals that the local citizen has a perfect right to inspect for his or her own safe any public report on projects financed by the town.

Public reports should be immediately accessible and the enquiring public, whether they be newspapermen or ordinary interested citizens, should be made feel welcome to examine any statements on municipal budgets at any time. These reports or statements should be proffered, not the object of a search. They should be easily accessible as soon as they are received. Anything in this constitutes a breach of public rights and sometimes through undeserved suspicion on the person or persons who try to delay the release of public information.

The Post would like to see some member of Council have a resolution placed on record whereby it would be made clear that all reports relative to municipal business become accessible to the general public (newspapersmen included) immediately on receipt.

OTHERS SAY

NOSBODY LOVES A WHINER

Many men and women are prey to their mood. They do not handle life as they should. As a consequence they are often badly treated just because they have let life get a grapple hold on them rather than keeping the upper hand themselves. One of the most devastating things that can indulge in is the mood of self pity. Nobody loves a whiner. Complaints are often made that a man is a whiner. They don't know he falls into this category. That is, said and often true commentary of the constancy of human affections. But the men who are most lost in this category are the ones who have lost their friends, but who have been driven away from their own complaining—Gleup Mercury

WE LIVE WITH IT

Relations between capital and labor are difficult. They are difficult because of the difference in the way of thinking.

Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors, put the case in a nutshell the other day when he spoke in Toronto on sound collective bargaining.

"Unfortunately, too often one party tries to gain an advantage with unfairness to the other. This is the case when a worker bargains with his wife. If you still got to live with her. What must be grasped more clearly by both capital and labor is that co-operation and peace, rather than strife and war, are the products of prosperity of employer, employee, and the nation."

"That the way it is. It's all within the national life, or the community. It's all within the life of the family is hurt by the bargain, yet all going to be hurt in the long run—Lethbridge Herald.

IT'S HIGHER DOWN UNDER

Of course, we're talking about snow, and yet... Well, look at the situation: A lot of people were congratulating themselves heretofore and theretofore upon the open winter. But in the last few days the open winter has closed up like a box.

The snow is high; the temperature is low. Down where you would scrape to find rock bottom is sheer ice, unoccupied cars come few and far between on city streets. It's hard to stand in a train. You can't get away from the wintry look of things, not even in the subway.

This is the moment when a worldwide news agency decides to report on the weather in Melbourne, Australia. Now, presumably, they've been having weather down there the year round. But what news agency has thought it worth the money (it now costs $1.50 90 degrees or better, $2.00 was said better "down under" while it's zero to 50 degrees or worse "up over" where the news report is intended to be read.

We know that at least a part of the situation. There are bound to be contrasts. As the old song had it, "When it's raining in Italy, it's Wednesday over here." But it was at least a part of the situation.

IN SHORT—FEBRUARY!

For some reason it is fashionable, whenever February comes round, to disparage February. The reason is not February. Or it may be that human opinions do not coincide with February's on what constitutes an amiable month.

February's intentions are probably as good as the rest month's or those of any. And like many of another among us who prefers to let his estimate of himself rest on his own knowledge of his intentions, February goes its breezy way and paves out slippery streets with no problems.

It reminds Americans, when they become irked with its antics, that it has also a penchant for great things—like providing the properly rigorous climate for great men to be born in, thus providing moralists with axioms about the relation of hardship to success.

And about the 14th there is a snow, though not of the proverbial January variety that melts snow and ice. It is of the kind that sticks. It is the kind that little trimmings and red hearts, and during which even little boys become momentarily tolerant towards little girls. It can bring a warmth that lasts through all a century.

But what most convincingly commends February to us all is most often forgotten. And perhaps February itself would prefer to be so. Yet we cannot here omit a word of gratitude to this useful month, which, acting as a bridge from January to March, may set us down in a freeze or a snowdrift but does bring us four weeks nearer spring.

A VOICE STIFLED

Forty years ago a writer on Argentina described La Prensa (The Press) as "a newspaper of which any country or city might be proud." It has been true down to the recent demise of the outstanding publication more foreign news than any other paper in the world; it had among Argentines a reputation for accuracy as well as independence and consequently was influential.

That influence was anathema to President Juan Peron, for while La Prensa was temperate and impartial in editorial comment, it pointed out governmental shortcomings and printed facts the government did not wish publicized. This approached "disrespect" under the Peronist regime.

La Prensa was severely restricted in its once ample supplies of newspaper print. Then the government took over the preparation of lists of those seeking employment, prohibiting any advertisement for this purpose. Finally the government-controlled news vendors' union demanded exclusive distribution rights in Buenos Aires and 20 per cent of the paper's

Please Give Us Old Fashioned Winter Is Refrain Of Ontario Lumbermen

Toronto.—"Please give us an old-fashioned winter, the half of the winter were patchy however, but the end of January may be the best time for the snow and frost penetration were good."

An early light freeze followed by a heavy snowfall of 10 inches was blamed by Lunde and Peron men, in some districts, with the weather forecast for preventing frost penetration.

Department of Forestry and Game Warden operators who make use of frozen water courses and snow lying on the ground to make ice have encouraged considerable difficulty. The hail storm must be made to make the snow sufficiently to allow the mill and loggers to work. This takes much more time to allow the snow to melt and the ice to be done before the usual process of milling and log with heater equipment is undertaken.

Despite the obstacles of weather, the cutting operations almost completed for the season, wood operators are expecting very little to bail the forest out of this which this year is near the peak wood production in the province. According to estimates of Department of Lands and Forests there were 100,000 cords of wood in the bush this season. The army of men in the region of 100,000 million board feet of sawlogs, over three million cords of pulpwood, and 100,000 cords of firewood, more than 14,000 cords; nearly 80,000 cords and approximately 70,000 cords.

These volumes are in excess of the quantities cut in the previous years, and are not according to the Department.

Stump Pullers and Planes

Ottawa, Ont.—"John Murphy, a well-known stump puller, is talking on the B.P.M. (John Murphy) for a decade but his owner says the results of his labor have been disappointing."

Whenever a plane from nearby Rockville lands overhead, or a plane from the nearby airport, John Murphy's name is heard, grand old man of the stump pulling business.

He cleared the way for those machines. When spring came, the stump puller was ready and it was put at the disposal of the owner.

His operation was simple. All that was needed was a hook and a cable. A circle's place that was attached to a heavy screw. The whole machine was used to pull the stump out of the ground.

When the work was done, the machine cleared the area, and the stump was pulled out of the ground. The machine cleared the area, and the stump was pulled out of the ground.

We are quite of the opinion that the transaction of the Company and of the amalgamating Companies that have come within our notice have been within the powers of the Companies.
